

STÛV 21: FIRE, AND FIRE ONLY!

The Stûv 21 stove is a blessing to all 5 senses. In all circumstances, an exceptional view of the flames; when it operates as an open fire, the radiant glow, the smell of burning logs and the crackling of embers. And even the pleasure of a grill in the middle of winter!

+++++

Discreet

All there is between the fire and the masonry is a 4 cm metal frame: no flashy designer strip, the focus is on the fire and the architecture.

+++++

Partly-raised glass door

The bottom profile of the glass door is out of sight and does not hinder vision of the flames; the operation with partly-raised glass door avoids back-draught in cases where the chimney has insufficient draught, and the lower overall height requirements allow the fireplace to be integrated in a low horizontal space.

+++++

All mechanical components can be accessed in a couple of seconds!

While many a manufacturer fails to provide access to technical components out of reach behind masonry, we at

Stûv provide almost-instant access to moving parts that may require maintenance.

+++++

The glass door tilts forward for an easy wipe-clean of the inner glass pane.

+++++

A wide range

Single or double-faced stoves, from 45 to 135 cm wide.

+++++

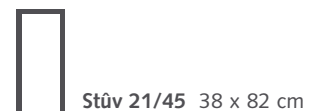

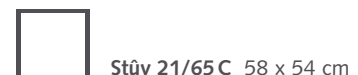

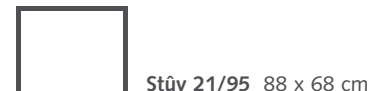

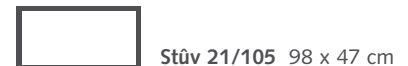

EN Standards

Low discharge into the atmosphere and high efficiency: Stûv 21 stoves are certified to comply with EN Standards.

+++++

Accessories

Barbecue!
Finishing strips to install fireplace with no masonry work.

Design: Gérard Pitance & Antoine Offergeld (2002)

